

Steve Hahn

President, AT&T Oklahoma

Steve Hahn, president of AT&T Oklahoma, leads AT&T's legislative, regulatory, and public affairs activities in the state, advocating for policies that encourage investment and the deployment of advanced communications services. He was appointed to his current position in May 2014.

Prior to joining AT&T Oklahoma, Hahn was president of AT&T Kansas. There, Hahn led several successful legislative and regulatory efforts, including initiatives to stimulate investment in 21st century broadband networks.

Previously, as director of external affairs at AT&T's corporate headquarters in Dallas, Steve played a key role in the deployment of AT&T U-verse in 22 states. Prior to that assignment, Steve led a team that delivered on the company's commitment to provide video content on "three screens," - television, computers, and wireless devices.

After earning an M.B.A. at Texas A&M University, Steve joined AT&T in the Leadership Development Program and held positions in network services, customer care and operations. Steve guided numerous product launches and managed AT&T's alliance with DISH Network. Steve received a B.A. from the University of Texas at Austin before working as legislative director for a Texas state representative and worked on several political campaigns.

He is involved with numerous community organizations, serving in leadership roles with the Greater Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce, the State Chamber of Oklahoma, the Oklahoma Business Roundtable and the United Way of Central Oklahoma. He is an avid outdoorsman and enjoys golf, soccer, hunting and fishing. Steve and his wife, Julie, have three sons.
